DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Claims 3-9 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in Paper No. 3.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 2 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claim 2 requires an isolator fixed between a cab and a slide guide rail. The disclosure defines a guide rail and a slide guide, but the meaning of "slide guide rail" is unclear. The specification also describes the guide rails extending the length of the elevator shaft and the slide guides riding on them. The specification further discloses and illustrates the guide rails being attached to the elevator cab. It is unclear which elements are attached to the cab and which elements are attached to the elevator shaft.

Art Unit: 3683

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The term "dense material" in claim 11 is a relative term which renders the claim indefinite. The term "dense material" is not defined by the claim, the specification does not provide a standard for ascertaining the requisite degree, and one of ordinary skill in the art would not be reasonably apprised of the scope of the invention. Claim 11 requires a material selected from a group consisting of a metallic material and a dense material. The scope of this limitation is unclear.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1 and 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Suchodolski et al (US#5325937).

Suchodolski et al disclose all the limitations of the instant claims including: an elevator component, a second component, at least one vibration isolator 18 being positioned between the elevator component and the second component, and each vibration isolator having a plurality of layers with at least one layer 46 being a hard layer and at least one layer 48 being a soft layer.

Regarding claim 10, Suchodolski et al disclose a plurality of hard layers and a plurality of soft layers.

Regarding claim 11, see column 2, lines 40-45.

Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mason.

Mason discloses all the limitations of the instant claims including: an elevator component, a second component, at least one vibration isolator being positioned between the elevator component and the second component, and each vibration isolator having a plurality of layers with at least one layer 13 or 17 being a hard layer and at least one layer 19 being a soft layer.

Regarding claim 2 (as best understood), Mason discloses an elevator component 10 and a guide rail 17.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Mason in view of Irwin (US#3504905).

Art Unit: 3683

Mason discloses all the limitations of the instant claims with exception to a plurality of both hard and soft layers. It is well known in the art to laminate layers of elastomer and metal to increase the load capacity of elastomeric materials. Irwin teaches a laminated bearing with a plurality of hard layers and a plurality of soft layers that provide an increased compressive load capability. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize a laminated elastomer such as taught by Irwin in the isolator of Mason to increase the load capacity of the mount, thereby increasing the capabilities of the device.

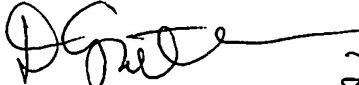

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Ferrisi et al, Ho, De Jong et al, McCormick, Henry, and JP 2-95693.
